

Top Reasons Why Pharmacy is Right for You

An Exciting Career Choice

Pharmacy combines science, healthcare, technology, business, and counseling, offering patient interaction, independence, and opportunities in disease recognition and emergency response.

A Trusted Profession

Recent Gallup Polls show that pharmacists are ranked in the top three most trusted professions, rated highly for honesty and ethics, making pharmacy an incredibly rewarding career choice.

A Variety of Opportunities

Pharmacists are needed in community pharmacies, hospitals, long-term care, the pharmaceutical industry, managed care, and government. Those with advanced training can often move between these areas easily.

Excellent Earning Potential

Pharmacy is a financially rewarding career, with a median annual wage of $136,030 based on 2023 statistics. Pharmacists are consistently in demand, even during economic downturns.

Helping People Get Better

Patients benefit from having pharmacists on their healthcare teams as medication specialists. According to the CDC, this significantly improves chronic disease management and medication adherence.

Direct Patient Contact

Pharmacists provide accessible, appointment-free services in all healthcare settings, including immunizations, asthma care, blood pressure monitoring, cholesterol screening, and more.

Demand for Pharmacists

There is a strong and ongoing demand for pharmacy services in the U.S., fueled by factors such as increased patient service needs, prescription volume, and the variety of available medicine.

Innovative Treatments

Pharmacogenomics is an exciting area of pharmacy that studies how genetic variations affect drug responses, aiming to personalize treatments, improve disease prevention, and optimize therapies.

State-Of-The-Art Technology

Digital innovations in pharmacy, such as electronic prescriptions and robotics, boost efficiency and safety. Pharmacists use these tools for effective medication management and problem resolution.
